Scheduling Classes in the University Library

Due to various issues related to staffing, security and accessibility for students with disabilities, classes may be scheduled in the University Library as long as the beginning and ending times are within the University Library's normal hours of operation.

Prior to scheduling classes, schedulers need to be aware of the University Library's operating hours, which vary from term to term and during the weeknights and weekends, and schedule within those time frames.

Operating hours are listed below but are subject to change. Schedulers are advised to check with the Library Administration for any changes to the hours listed.
